

WE'VE NOT FORGOTTEN THE DINGING APPEAL TO 'AMERICANISM'

served as the basis for the speaker's opening discussion.

Who stand today on the fertile soil of America, who stand under the smiling skies of a free and fruitful land, must prove worthy of the trust that American sacrifice has imposed on every American.

"Disregarding the divisions that make one man a republican and another a democrat, Americans will cast aside the tinsel of party labels and the mummery of party embassies.

"From the great pulsing heart of the nation will come a patriot command to crush partisanship and rebuke whatever is mean or blind.

"That command will be heard by the people in his day, the day when the laborer at his bench, the merchant in his office and the lawyer at his desk, will be false to our selves and recant to those who send us here if we permitted any thought of partisan advantage to obscure our vision of the tremendous issues now before the people of the United States.

"We must hold ourselves worthy of a nation's confidence by offering only the best of ourselves, and by showing our patriotism toward the solution of what all men perceive to be a crisis in the nation's affairs."

Flame of War at Bay.

In asking for an endorsement of the President's peace policy, Mr. Glynn said:

"For two years the world has been aflame; the civilization that we know has been torn by the mightiest struggle in its history. Sparks from Europe's conflagration have blazed in our own skies; echoes of her strife have sounded at our very doors. That fire still burns, that struggle still continues, but thus far the United States has held the flame at bay; thus far it has saved its people from participation in the war."

"What the people of the United States must determine through their suffrage is whether the peace policy which has been pursued through this crucial period is to be continued; whether the principles that have been asserted as our national policy shall be continued; whether the peace policy is to be continued."

"This is the paramount issue. No lesser issue must cloud it, no unrelated problem must confuse it.

"In declaring that the policy of neutrality is as American as the American flag, Mr. Glynn said:

"The first President of the United States was the first man to pronounce neutrality a rule of international conduct.

"In April, 1793, Washington declared the doctrine, and within a month John Adams had followed him in the same course. The United States, in an epoch-making decision, from the bench whose realization had been the dream of the great statesman, wrote the principle into the law of the land. The Declaration of Independence had been the first step; the States by proclamation, the first Chief Justice by interpretation, gave it vitality and power."

Stands With the Founders.

"The President of the United States stands today where stood the men who made America, and who saved America. He stands where John Adams stood when he told King George that America was no longer a colony, but a nation; where George Washington stood when he prayed that this country would never unseat the sword except in self-defense, so long as peace and order and essential rights could be preserved without it.

"For sagacity or for self-preservation, others may cry up a policy of blood and iron, but the President of the United States has acted on the basis of the leadership of a nation who plunges his people into an unnecessary war, like Pontius Pilate, vainly washing his hands of innocent blood while the earth quakes and the heavens are darkened and thousands give up the ghost."

"Speaking of the opposition to the President's peace policy, the speaker continued:

"Oppose Early Patriots.

"By opposing what we stand for today, the republican party opposes what Hamilton stood for a century ago. The founder of the republican party and the founder of the democratic party, placing their country's happiness above every other consideration, stood for peace and made American neutrality a national creed. We who follow Jefferson stand where Jefferson stood, and we who follow Hamilton stand where Hamilton stood. The line of the present leaders of the republican party to show that they follow the line of Hamilton is a line of peace; the line of the present leaders of the democratic party to show that they follow the line of Hamilton is a line of war."

"The justification of the policy of neutrality was expressed by Mr. Glynn in these words:

"Before this declaration every war was a world war; since this declaration every war has been a local war. Before this declaration every war was a world war; since this declaration every war has been a local war. Before this declaration every war was a world war; since this declaration every war has been a local war."

from the United States warship Baltimore killed outright in the streets of Valparaiso and sixteen of our sailors wounded, of whom one afterward died.

"But we didn't go to war. Harrison settled our troubles by negotiation just as the President of the United States is trying to do today.

"When Lincoln was President this country's rights were violated on every side. England, Russia, France and Spain were guilty of such flagrant violations that Secretary of State Seward advanced a parallel with all of them at one and the same time.

"But we didn't go to war. Lincoln settled our troubles by negotiation just as the President is trying to do today.

Ousted British Minister.

"When Pierce was President the British minister in this country and three of his counsel violated our neutrality during the Crimean war. We gave these representatives of Great Britain their passports and sent them home.

"But we didn't go to war. Pierce settled our troubles by negotiation just as the President of the United States is trying to do today.

"When Van Buren was President a detachment of Canadian militia, during the internal troubles in Canada, boarded the United States ship Carolina and killed an American member of the crew, fired the ship and sent her to the bottom.

"But we didn't go to war. Van Buren settled our troubles by negotiation just as the President of the United States is trying to do today.

"When Jefferson was President England seized hundreds of our ships and Napoleon hundreds more.

"When Adams was President France preyed upon our commerce, the extended waters of the North Atlantic, the very waters of the United States themselves until she had piled up in our State Department charges of over 2,300 violations of neutrality's law.

"But we didn't go to war. Adams settled our troubles by negotiation just as the President of the United States is trying to do today.

"When Washington was President and 'neutrality' first declared, war convulsed Europe our ships dared not go to sea, commerce was paralyzed and business depressed. American passengers and American crews were thrown into prison and deprived of legal rights.

"But we didn't go to war. Washington settled our troubles by negotiation just as the President of the United States is trying to do today.

"The United States is trying to do today."

Alabama Claims Cited.

In concluding this issue, Mr. Glynn said:

"Do the critics of the present administration believe that Lincoln should have risked national disaster by using the sword rather than the pen in pressing the Alabama claims? Are they willing to brand Grant as a coward because he kept us out of peace with Spain? In answer to those who say that President Wilson's policy does not satisfy any one, Mr. Glynn replied:

"The United States should live up to the principles it has professed for the past century. It should believe the United States should live up to the principles it has professed for the past century. It should believe the United States should live up to the principles it has professed for the past century."

"Chief Justice White of the United States Supreme Court says this policy is the policy of the greatest statesman of the past generation. Maximilian Harden, Germany's noted editor, says that never one has this policy violated the neutrality of the United States. Chester, the famous English journalist, says: 'It is the duty of the President of the United States to protect the interests of the people of the United States, that he should not allow the United States to be a world of being an individual sailor.'

"Satisfies American Mothers.

"This policy," Mr. Glynn continued, "may not satisfy those who revel in destruction and find pleasure in despair. It may not satisfy the fire-eater or the swashbuckler. But it does satisfy those who worship at the altar of the god of peace. It does satisfy those who believe in the law of the land and the rule of the law. It does satisfy those who believe in the law of the land and the rule of the law."

the temporary chairman pointed out that the promise made by democracy four years ago had been faithfully kept.

"Today the prosperity which the nation enjoys bears witness that democracy has kept the faith. Today the gates of opportunity are open; the hosts of special privilege stand disarmed. Today the forces of government are encouraging, not blocking, the full expression of the nation's progress.

"The business man, the artisan and farmer find themselves free to enjoy the fruits of their labors, unhampered by the sinister power of special privilege or the selfish oppression of 'invisible government.'

Reform in Banking Laws.

Of the federal reserve act, Mr. Glynn had this to say:

"In the panic of 1907, under the old system, New York could not lend a country bank $50,000 with which to meet factory pay rolls; in 1915, under the new system, inaugurated by this democratic administration, New York could lend a country bank $50,000, even though the financial centers of the world were disrupted by a world war, and there were still left in New York the largest bank deposits in its history."

"This democratic administration had performed no other public service than the enactment of the federal reserve act, a higher tribute to the unselfish approval of a grateful nation. Thanks to democracy and to democratic administration, a higher tribute to the unselfish approval of a grateful nation. Thanks to democracy and to democratic administration, a higher tribute to the unselfish approval of a grateful nation."

FIVE DEAD, 19 HURT IN FIRE IN BALTIMORE

Pennsylvania Terminal, 1,000,000 Bushels of Grain and Two Steamships Are Destroyed.

BALTIMORE, June 14.—Five lives were lost and nineteen were injured, three are missing, the big Pennsylvania grain elevator No. 3 was destroyed, 1,000,000 bushels of grain are in ashes, a seven-hundred-foot pier and two steamships were partly burned, and a property loss estimated at more than $2,000,000, at the Canton terminals of the Pennsylvania railroad here yesterday afternoon. It was the greatest fire loss here since the destruction of the entire business section of Baltimore in February, 1904. The fire was started by an explosion, probably caused by grain dust or overheated grain, although the bomb theory has been advanced by some persons who were in or near the elevator at the time.

The marriage of Miss Mary Wheeler Vest and Lieut. Mason James Young, U. S. A., will take place this evening at the home of the bride's aunt, Mrs. William Burr Harrison, on P street. Rev. F. W. Denys will perform the ceremony.
